

Qi Sudbury

Qi Sudbury - A Feng Shui is someone who has studied in the subject of Feng Shui and could assist people with the layout, decoration and orientation of both residential and commercial spaces. Feng Shui consultants can be used for both interior and exterior or structural applications that depends on the project they were hired for. Like for example, he or she may be responsible for only the cosmetic dressing and design of an interior area. Alternatively, if a Feng Shui consultant is brought in to provide suggestion in an initial planning stage of a project, he or she could offer input concerning the structural elements of the building or space.

Feng Shui is most commonly practiced within office and home locations. In the past, this art was most usually performed buildings of significance like palaces and places of worship. In the nineteen sixties Feng Shui became common in the West. Various books have been written ever since then and published in English as well as other languages. Several Westerners who have studied Feng Shui have gone on to become consultants.

There are a lot of schools which particularly offer courses in Feng Shui. To become a professional Feng Shui consultant, it is necessary to dedicate time so as to become totally conversant with the practice. Feng Shui is based on an understanding of qi, that is also known as "chi." Qi is normally defined as the flow of energy that is linked to all the living things. The practice also relies on polarity, the theory of yin and yang and magnetic pull. A Feng Shui consultant should even know the several symbols linked to practice and knowing a lot concerning qi.

Normally, in the West, Feng Shui is usually practiced within private residences. Even if there are several professional areas that are built or dressed according to the principles of Feng Shui, they are uncommon. Even if the area in general has not been organized to the principles of Feng Shui, it is possible to integrate elements into private work spaces. When including Feng Shui into dressing and designing a bigger area, it may be wise to check with a Feng Shui consultant, though it is possible to do smaller projects on one's own.

Various sites on the World Wide Web are committed to providing information concerning Feng Shui, its history and its principles. The information on the web sites often consists of general knowledge of Feng Shui as well as information regarding schools that provide courses. Some of these web sites likewise provide contact details for people in search of a Feng Shui consultant.